

GLASSBORO CHILD DEVELOPMENT CENTER – School Age Care Programs

...is proud to present this success story and you WILL recognize the name!

During the 2004-2005 school season, and while in the 4th through the 6th Grade at Thomas E. Bowe School in Glassboro, a local mother enrolled her son in Glassboro Child Development Center's "NJ After 3" program. This program is substantially supported with funds from United Way of Gloucester County's generous donors, and offers academic assistance, enrichment, and vigorous physical activity. Thirteen years later, this young man, Corey Clement, has worked hard, earned a position with the Philadelphia Eagles, and is now a Super Bowl LII Champion! The staff of Glassboro CDC recently reunited with Corey, and they were happy to have been able to offer after-school support for him and his family, as well as all the families who benefit from this program every day.
