

LITERACY NEW JERSEY - Adult Literacy

...is proud to present this success story about...June

In December 2017, June got her high school diploma! June is from Jamaica and made the United States her home more than 15 years ago.

She works as a Home Health Aide, but without a diploma she was working long, hard hours for low pay. Last year June started Literacy New Jersey's High School Equivalence class in Glassboro, while also meeting with a tutor. She had taken the test before and did not pass, however, instead of being discouraged, she worked even harder. Last month she passed all sections of the test and got her high school diploma. Her new goal is to get more training so she can one day work in a hospital. Support from the United Way of Gloucester County helped turn June's dream into a reality. Thank you!
